Steamer Bristol Burned---Grant and the Louisville Ex-Confederates ... Vance's Committee, etc.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.-A fire broke out this morning in the large paint works on 414 Bleecker street, which is a five-story brick building. The flames spread so rapidly that the second and third alarms were immediately sent out. At the present writing the fire is still raging, and the firemen have not been able to get it under their control. A fire broke out simultaneously with the above, on board the steamer "Bristol," lying at pier 28, on North River. This fire is also still raging.

Napoleon's Parents.

The family of Bonaparte were of pure Italian race; there was not a drop of French blood in any of them. Their ancestors had come from the main-land in the early history of Corsica, and their names are found in the remote annals of Ajaccio. Carlo Bonaparte was a poor gentleman of excellent breeding and character, who married in his youth a young and romantic girl named Letizia Ramolino, who followed him in his campaign up to the moment of the birth of Napoleon. It is impossible to say how much the history of Europe owes to the high heart and indomitable spirit of this soldierly woman. She never re-linquished her authority in her family. When all her children were princes and potentates, she was still the severe, stern Madame Mere. The beauty and grace of Josephine Beauharnais never conquered her; the sweet Tyrolese prettiness of Maria Louisa won from her

When her mighty son ruled the continent, she was the only human being whose chidings he regarded or endured. She was faithful in her rebukes while the sun shone, and when calamity came, her undaunted spirit was still true and devoted to the fallen. Her provincial habit of economy stood her in good stead in her vigorous old age; she was rich when the Empire had passed away, and her grandchildren needed her aid. It must have been from her that Napoleon took his extraordinary character, for Carlo Bonaparte, though a brave soldier and an ardent patriot in his youth, was of an easy and genial temper, inclined to take the world as he found it, and not to insist too much on haying it go in his especial way. After the cause of Corsican liberty was lost by the success of the French arms, he accepted the situation without regret, and becoming intimate with the conquerors, he placed as many of his family as possible on the French pension list. His sons Napoleon and Louis were given scholarships at Bri

While yet in the prime of life, he died of the same deadly isease which was to finish Napoleon's days at St. Helena; and the heroic mother, her responsibilities becoming still heavier by this blow, lived for eight years longer amid the confusion and civil tumult which had become chronic in Corsica; and then, after the capture of the island by the English in 1793, she made her escape with her children to Marseilles, where she lived several years in great penury.—Har-per's Magazine for December.

GUILFORD. GREENSBORO, Nov. 11.—Robert, son of W. R. Murray, one of our largest dry goods merchants, met with quite a serious, if not fatal accident on Saturday evening last. He and some other small boys had walked out on the grading of the Fayetteville Railroad and there met returned from hunting. While sitting on the bank of the cut some one told Robert to shoot that sparrow that had just flew up. He reached down to pull the gun up the bank towards him taking the gun by the muzzle and by some means or other the gun went off

There was a rousing Railroad meet ing held at the Court House last Saturday night: the purpose of which was to make a big rally for the Railroad election which comes off on the 15th inst. ever before Yours, hurriedly,

As intimated last week, the Young Men's Christian Association are hold ing the regular prescribed services daily this week, beginning by a regular 7 A. M. prayer-meeting and 7 P. M. regular prescribed topics. Yesterday morning was the first of these; and at 1 A. M., Dr. J. H. Smith preached to a very full house to the young, (the other denominations of the city uniting.) from the text: "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth," which subject he continued at night from the text, Mark: 34, 12. "And where Jesus laid him," etc. Sabbath evening at 4 o'clock there was also another meeting at the hall, which was very largely at tended, showing much interest in the great work before us, and the great opportunity on each one to do that work faithfully. To-night, Rev. Mr. Betts led the meeting, taking the subject of the young man mentioned in the Bible, and also that of Cain and Abel, and presented the same very clearly. Will not the christian people of this land pray, especially this week, for the safety and conversion of our dear young—the hope of the world—that they may be saved from dram shops, and other places of vice and crime, that their habits may be temperate. Yesterday I witnessed the burial, in the country, of the fifth person who have died in less than two months, the offspring of one family-two young wives and their little ones—and hence two young husbands. To look upou those five mounds, so fresh and new,sad! sad, indeed! And to make it more solemn, the poor husband whom we buried yesterday was not able to be out of bed for many days to see his sick wife, and only saw her at last as she was borne to his bedside by gentle hands. This writer has never experienced such sights before. Saturday night another meeting was had in the courthouse in the interest of the Coalfields & Yaukin Valley Railroad extension. The committee showed much canvassing had been done, and that the prospect was good to carry at the election next Saturday. The meeting adjourned until Friday night, when there is to be a big torchlight procession, and on Saturday a Barbacue.

to come, as one of the celebrated cases. Mrs. Adams, with her husband and five children, three boys and two girls, lived eight or ten miles below Lancaster village, the husband and father a farmer, working on the lands of Mr. A. J. Kibler. Near them lived a neighbor, a Mr. Crensbaw, and last Saturday night about twelve o'clock the Crenshaws were aroused from sleep by the cries of Mrs. Adams, who appeared at their door begging for an axe but insisting that no light be brought. Going out Mr. Crenshaw discovered that th clothing was entirely burnt from the body of the woman and that she was suffering intensely from the fire which had enveloped her. He asked her where her baby was, to which she replied, "In heaven," and proposed to other question on condition that she should be knocked in the head. Judging from Mrs. Adams' condition that her heaven had been havened down and her house had been burned down, and thinking it likely that the children had been burned with it, Mr. Crenshaw ran thither, but finding no fire upon the premises except upon the hearth in one of the rooms of the dwelling, he returned to his own home without en-

Other persons were by this time gathered at Crenshaw's house, and Mrs. Crenshaw suggesting that Mrs. Adams be taken back to her own home, she was wrapped in a sheet and carried thither. An hour and a half after being placed in her own bed, death kindly came to her relief, and she passed away without a word to those around her concerning the terrible picture which was soon to be opened up to cover was removed and the bodies

Some of the neighbors, of whom there had by this time gathered quite a number, having occasion to go into a little shed room connected with the house, encountered there a spectacle which, once looked upon, is never to be forgotten. In one bed lay all five of the children, each weltering in its own blood, and all dead. All resting in natural positions-three of the children's heads at the head of the bed, and the heads of the other two at the foot-so much of repose was there in the scene, and so little suggestion of violence of any kind, that the chance spectator would have said that they were enjoying natural sleep.

turned over. There was no difficulty in finding theory for the presence of these six corpses in the house. The mother, known by the neighbors to have been an utterly wretched woman in a mo ment of sudden frenzy had taken the lives of her five children and then set fire to her own clothing to finish her work. How well she did it has already been told. That she was insane when she did it does not admit of the slightest doubt. As to the cause of her in sanity there are conflicting stories. The most generally accepted is that of jealously and this theory is all the more plausible since there are no allegations in the neighborhood of personal vio-lence on the part of the husband. She had been heard to say that she would rather see her children dead than to have them living as they were, but the full force of this remark does not appear in the absence of proofs of degrading poverty. The husband and father was not at home at the time of the occurrence. which must ever be to him the blackest of dark memories. General James A. Garfiled was in the city last week attending to some business connected with the forthcoming re-union of the Army of the Cumberland. He was interrogated by Post as to the results likely to flow from the New York election. The election is left in such an undecided way," he said, "that it is hard to judge. Both sides are claiming the victory. Cornell's magnificent majority is, of course, a source of pride to Republicans, and will have inevitably tendency to strengthen and solidify the party in the State, remove the embarrassing bickerings and minor quarrels that have existed in it up to this time, and have partially paralyzed its usefulness. Had it not been that such a provoking state of affairs existed, I am confident we would have elected the entire ticket by an overwhelming vote. But the Republicans were half-hearted that was evident. No such enthusiasm was shown as in our Ohio struggle, where old war Democrats joined in with us, and enabled us to effect a change of nearly forty thousand votes. Charlotte Observer 11th. From perfectly trustworthy sourcesfrom a letter received from across the border and from a gentleman who arrived in this city yesterday afternoonparticulars are gathered of one of the most shocking transactions that was ever heard of. The story of the crime and end of Mrs. James Adams, late of Lancaster county, S. C., has, happily, but few parallels in all the annals of crime, and it will in all likelihood, stand out conspicuously for many years

The bodies were still warm, but the blood was there to tell where the knife had been. Lights were brought and examination revealed that not one little life had been spared by the distracted mother. In every case the jugular yein had been cut by some sharp instru-ment, and so painless was the death that not one child had moved. The eldest of the children-aged about eleven years-had been stabbed in two places and the infant in three, but only upon the face of the eldest was there a scratch, and except upon the necks where the life blood had run out, there was no sign of blood until the

They are mere vaporings, Candidates for the Presidency will die, be born and die again, politically speaking, before the race fairly begins. There is a session of Congress to be held between now and the time for selecting delegates, and the policy of the Democrats during that, will probably decide the character of the Republican policy and who the candidate will be. "Do you think that a majority of the Republican party favor Grant's nomination at this time?"

"I cannot say as to that. A great many members of the party are honestly opposed to the third-term idea, and would object to his renomination on that account: a great many more on that account; a great many more did not like Grant's administration when he was here before and dread a repetition of it. The party, however, will, I believe, cordially support any one who is nominated."
"Who will the Democrats be most likely to nominate now in view of the new phase the New York elections place upon the question?"

He can point to the terrible odds he has staggered under during the campaign; deny even then that Robinson was his candidate; claim that if Potter had been nominated he would have won, etc. Tilden may yet give the aspirants for his alleged yacant shoes some trouble."

Canal Meeting in Duplin County. Correspondence of the NEWS. The citizens of Duplin county met at Keansville on the 3rd of November. Col. W. A. Allen first addressed the meeting. His speech was forcible and filled with eloquent and well illustrated ideas, and was replete with food for thought. It was a speech every thinking man in the State should have heard. Colonel Allen said he had been invited to address the meeting, and although not to the manor born, he came to the county twenty-two years ago, he had spent the greater portion of his manhood up to the present in Duplin, of choice, not of necessity, Three of his four children had been borned in the county, and one of them now lies mouldering to the dust in yonder grave yard, there to sleep until the resurrection morn. Ties like this is sufficient to command the affections of any man with the God-given spark in his boson in favor of any measure calculated to add to the prosperity of the county. He said the Duplin Canal was a grand enterprise for Duplin county. As a commercial highway or water road, for the transportation of Agricultural products, running through the middle of the county, would give cheap transportation, as water transportation was the cheapest transportation in the world; and here he considered and commented

That such a canal in the way of draining the swamp lands would make Dup-lin the Egypt of North Carolina. Here he referred to his agricultural address delivered twenty-one years ago, and read many extracts, amongst others how Holland has drained her lowlands, and even wrested it from the sea, a large portion of her territory by dykes and immense sea walls.

And what the ancients deemed their best lands were identically of the same character as those now overflowed in Duplin—that Goshen Swamp, only one of the many swamps in the county, if drained, would make over 400,000 bushels of corn. The speaker vividly depicted the dangers of Cape Hatteras, with the con-stant occurring ship-wrecks; and predicted that in the near future, for avoiding this dangerous Cape, the United States Government would connect the Northeast Cape Fear with the Chesapeake Bay, by an inland ship canat, and that Duplin Canal would form a junction with this great water way at

D. B. Nicholson, Esq., followed, and in an eloquent and impressive manner addressed the meeting. His speech was well calculated to rouse the sleep ing energies of the people. He referred to the fast disappearance of the for-est, and that in a few more years the timber and turpentine business would cease to exist; then the people would have to rely strictly upon the products of the farm for support. The best uplands were worn out, and day by day the people were growing poorer. construction of the Duplin Canal was not a question of choice, but one of ne-It was a question of bread which, in all agricultural countries, was one paramount to all others. That last year Duplin county imported more corn than in any preceding year, yet if her vast swamps were drained become the grainery of the State. In the great march of improvement other sections were gaining so fast that should we not soon commence the race, we would be forever left behind; it was time the "Rip Van Winkles" were waking up.

He said some doubted the feasibility of the scheme, and there were men in Duplin that doubted the world turning, because the water was not spilled out the wells. The question as to whether water would run down a hill solved the problem. as the route of this canal was nearly four times shorter than the present course of the river, which would give nearly four times as much fall through the flow way of the canal, and when the river is once turned these doubters might as well try to stop the world from turning by their absurb reasoning, as to try to prevent the water from following the flow way of the canal. That as the bed of the canal deepened below tide level, it was one of the inevitable laws of nature that tide water would follow, thus making the canal perpetually navigable. A copy of the Onslow county resolutions adopted on the 26th of September last memoralizing the Board of Education to contract with the Duplin Caand Company for the draining of Angola bay or Tocoson was read and unanimously adopted. The meeting then adjourned.

The stockholders committee for Duplin met and appointed the Hon. W. A. Allen, N. B. Nicholson, Esq., and J. W. S. Miller, Esq., as a committee to correspond with the Board of Educa-

A TALK WITH BAYARD.

THE STATESMAN TOUCHES ON THE POLITICAL FUTURE.

Who Controls the Destinies of Parties--Why the Republicans Should Not Succeed-Other Topics,

Philadelphia Record, 10th. "I have not had a minute to myself ince I returned." said Senator Bayard to the RECORD representative this evening, as he received the newspaper man in his library. "See the confusion which exists here. There is a pile of letters which I nave been endeavoring to go through with, but have not met with much success, between committees on reception, newspaper men and friends who have called," continued the Senator. On a reading desk, held tightly in the wires, was a clipping from a prominent journal headed "Gold at par, January 1." "There" said the Senator, "I placed that on the desk before I returned to Washington the last time, and it has remained ever since." Mr. Bayard gives evidence in his appearance of better health. His face is tanned, he is fleshier and his eyes are brighter. His tall form and commanding presence impress one with the idea that such an appearance is what would be expected in a statesman. In conversation he is a rapid talker, chooses his words carefully, but hesitates every now and then, knits his brows, as if to call up a connecting link, and then continues his narrative. As he sat in his library this evening, he seemed the embodiment of the apt phrase he made use of in his speech before the Americus Club at the Philadelphia Academy of Music in the fall of 1878—statesmansnip, if it is anything is a science. His expressions, thoughts and conclusions, coupled with his career in the last Congress, made him loom up as a statesman who had given many hours to the study and acquisition of the science. REGRETTING THURMAN'S RETIREMENT. After the recital of how he had come home sooner than was expected, the Senator was asked his opinion concern ing the late election. He excused himself from comment on this subject, saying he had been abroad and his recent arrival had not allowed him time to look over the field. "Greatly do I regret the retirement of Mr. Thurman from the Senate," said Mr. Bayard, "He is a great man, and the people of the country will soon learn what a great loss they have suffered. I hope that he may soon be brought into public life again in some manner. Thurman was always a great friend of mine, but split away from me in 1872 on some measures. However, that did not alter our personal relations. I do not see why the question of the currency should enter into a contest for the selection of the Governor of Ohio. I am sure the Governor does not regulate the currency of that State. And this at a time when the returning of Mr. Thurman depended upon the result of the election. General Ewing is a brave man and a good and gallant soldier. His nomination set at rest all questions of the infidelity of the Democracy to the Union, which the Republican party has cried." "Since your recent return precludes an opinion on the fall elections, does the future look bright for the Democracy?" was asked. THE FUTURE, AND WHO CONTROLS PARTIES. "The Democratic party is fit to gov-ern the country," replied the Senator, "and it must show by its acts that the people have confidence in it. That is the only way to succeed. So far as the future of the Democratic party is concerned, there is none. The mission of an opposition is to closely watch straight. When those who hold the power abuse it the people will rise and hurl them out. Parties oftentimes think they are so strong as to be able to say : 'We don't care for the people. In 1874 the Republicans were defeated all over the country, at a time when they were in the zenith of their glory and power. The Democrats did not expect victory then, and were as much surprised as were the Republicans themselves. So far as the parties are concerned their power in about equally divided. It is the great army of think majority of either party. Which ever way they vote, when aroused, so goes the victory to that party." REPUBLICANISM AND SECTIONALISM.

Turning to the Republicans, the Senty should be disqualified because of its sectionalism. A man who hates one part of the country is not fit to be President over all of it. And yet this the Republican candidate. It has been settled beyond all doubt that this is to be a Union of States, indissoluble and whole. Then why should the North be educated to look upon the South with dishonor and distrust, and regard her people as cut-throats and murder-ers? The result of this will be that the South will become like a festering sore in the side of a great body. Its condition will be akin to that of Ireland in her relations with England, and that great country will become a curse in-stead of a blessing, as it should be. Were this the case with any other country on the face of the globe, the wise men of the Republican party would soon suggest some measures for makng the interests of the two sections identical; but here it is political capital to traduce people who are their own flesh and blood. Look what Austria has done for Hungary. Some of the best Generals of the Austrian army are Hungarians, and the very men who were exiled with Kossuth were given positions of honor. This thing is carried too far, and even enters West Were many of the affairs which occur in the South, and denominated outrages, to take place in Massachusetts or any of the New England States, the penalty of the law would soon be in-flicted upon the guilty parties instead of them being made heroes. I will cite an instance of a man who was Sheriff of Yazoo county, Miss, and who, as you say, was stumping Pennsylvania for the Republicans in the recent campaign. He shot and killed his rival Republican candidate so as to get his office, and was released from jail by Governor Ames, When order was restored in the State a true bill was found against this person for murder, but he has kept out of Mississippi since then." Reverting to the last session of Congress, the Senator remarked smilingly 'I felt rather solitary in Washington ast winter and spring. I do not think I will be so lonely at the coming session, for I believed that many who se cretly sympathized with the stand I took then would come out boldly now. "I am glad that things are reviving in the country now," said the Senator, as the news man was leaving. Then he remarked,"I will be in Philadelphia on Wednesday evening to attend the banquet of the wool growers." Indians and Schools.

He made bold this time to confront the party and ask for some toconfront the party and ask for some to-bacco, which was given him. He re-fused to answer any questions, and when he received the tobacco started off into the brush. His paraphernalia was very scanty, consisting simply of a breech cloth. He appeared to be a man of about 35 or 40 years of age; had a long shaggy beard, which looked as though it had not undergone a barber's siege for several years. His hair was exceedingly long and irregular in length, and his body was sunburnt to a copper complexion, and in many por-tions was covered with a thick growth tions was covered with a thick growth of hair. He was totally unarmed when seen, although he has been seen with firearms on former occasions. People in the neighborhood say he obtains food by robbing sheepherders' cabins in the vicinity. No one has ever been able to learn his name or any portion of his history. The supposition is, how-ever, that he was formerly a fugitive from justice, and has become so accustomed to that mode of living that it has become second nature to him. He is apparently harmless, and no one in the neighborhood seems to seriously object to his running at large.

SENATOR KERNAN'S VIEWS.

He Regards New York as Certain to Elect a Democratic President.

ew York Herald. "The Democratic party is not a thing of to-day and to-morrow. It has sur vived many worse reverses of fortune and will easily survive this. The late vote has demonstrated that it can carry this State when it makes up its mind to do so; and with the return of a season of calm reflection all the favoring elements will come together again for an earnest and united struggle. "Do you approve of the idea of a pecial and extraordinary convention for a sort of reorganization of the "I do not. It would excite too many ealousies, for the reason that many men who think themselves essential to the welfare of the party would necessarily be left out. Better leave the whole matter to the wise consideration of the people, and to the influence of time. As the late unhappy quarrel recedes from us and cool reflection supersedes the reign of passion and dis-cussion, the men who compose the Democratic party will come together in a spirit of patriotic harmony, and, burying all differences, will go forward with a single eye to the vindication of Democratic principles. The Democratic party must live and flourish, for it represents the masses of the nation who live by toil, and these we shall always have among us. The laborers, mechanics and farmers form the bone and sinew of the nation. The Republican party caters to a different class, and its tendency is to strong government, with its obvious consequences. The Democratic party will forever continue to rally the lovers of republican freedom in contradistinction to those who would seek to impose restrictive conditions on the exercise of guaranteed constitutional liberty."

"Do you think it will be necessary to carry New York State next fall to insure a Democratic Presidential victory in 1880? "Yes; New York is the pivotal State. Three or four more Northern States along with New York will decide, as they did in 1876, the fate of the elec-"And you are sanguine, Senator, that the Democrats will carry New York?" "I have no doubt about it, and I need only refer you to the returns of the late election to demonstrate the possibili-ers and watchers who make up the Freezing Himself for Sins Committed in His Youth. Those who happened to be in the Boston & Providence depot at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, says the Providence Press of Thursday, witnessed a sight which caused many to feel sad. At that time there came plodding into the station an old man not less than 60 years of age, barefooted, bareheaded, and in fact, with nothing on but a pair of well-worn overalls, which reached nearly to his kness, and a thin, white shirt, which was thrown open in front. With the unfortunate man was a small child, warmly clad, which he seemed to take great care of. On entering the depot he went into the gents' waiting room, where he placed the child near the stove, while he proceeded to pur-chase a ticket. After buying his ticket, he took a seat near the child, and was soon surrounded by a large crowd. One gentleman, anxious to se if the man was in need of money, asked him why he was so poorly clad. To this question at first he seemed not inclined to reply, but he finally said that in his early days he had been very wicked, and that he was now punish ing himself for it by going in an almost naked condition. He further stated that his intentions were to go in that condition during the remainder of the winter. At this point he took the child which accompanied him by the hand and boarded the 4:30 train on the New York & New England Railrord for Berlin. A gentleman present, who seemed o know, informed those who collected about him that the old fellow was really worth considerable money, being the owner of three houses on Smith's Hill

CAUGHT BY A BURGLAR WHO TURNED DETECTIVE.

The Dramatic Death of the Notorious Outlaw-How the Detective was Initiated.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 9,-The Times of this city says that the capture of Cummings, the confederate of the notorious outlaw, Jesse James, of whose dramatic death you have learned by telegraph, was the result of a campaign that was carefully planned by Marshal Ligget, and that the outlaw gang have been constantly under his surveillance since October last. The Marshal ascertained that the Glendale robbers had sought their old haunts in Clay county, and that George Shepherd, an old companion of the James brothers, who had shared their bankrobbing exploits, and had served a term in the Kentucky Penitentiary, had returned to this city and was earning an honest livelihood as a teamster. The Marshal enlisted him as a detective, and arranged that Shepherd should make an excursion to Clay, and, if he could learn their place of refuge, join the gang and then report to the Marshal. A printed slip was prepared which had the look of being cut from the Kan-City Times, on one side of which was a paragraph to the effect that Geo. Shep-herd had been identified as one of the Glendale robbers; that he had been seen in Kansas City since the 10bbery, and that detectives were on his track, with strong probabilities of his early capture. With this Shepherd went to the home of Mrs. Samuels, the mother of the James brothers, three miles from Kearney, once the rendezvous of Jesse and Frank and other members of the gang, and showed her the printed slip which he said was clipsed from slip, which he said was clipped from the Kansas City Times, denouncing him as one of the Gleadale robbers, He professed to believe that his own safety was in hunting up the boys and uniting his fortunes with theirs. Mrs. Samu-els retired for a short while, and on returning to the room bound a handkerchief over his eyes, and then he be-came aware that another person was in the room. He was conducted out of doors. Then he was lead for about three-quarters of a mile, and, on halting, found himself confronted by Jesse James and surrounded by several other men. He was solemnly sworn into the brotherhood, invoking upon his own head the extremest penalty for any breach of faith or act of perfidity. The gang were all effectively armed and their horses were concealed in the

After he had been for several days in the brush, Shepherd was permitted to revisit Kansas City to equip himself for the road, and on arriving here he imparted to Marshal Ligget all the information he had obtained. The Marshal supplied Shepherd with a horse, pistols, and blankets, and he rejoined his companions at the time apointed. They began their march at the time agreed upon, and Marshal Ligget saw the party, one of whom he identified as Shepherd, cross the stream at the point indicated by the latter. From that time forward they were closely marked by the Marshal's posse. Shepherd was in daily communication with Marshal Ligget, and a train was in waiting at Kansas City for the Marshal and his deputies to move at a moment's warning. That signal came on Sunday morning, Shepherd having determined to make the attack in the afternoon. He was well aware that any attempt to capture Jesse James alive would be futile. Therefore he resolved to take the risk of a personal encounter with James, to panions, and then, if pursued by them, ride into the ambuscade arranged by the Marshal and his posse, who would open fire and either kill or capture the entire gang. The plan was but partially successful. The ambuscade was at some distance from the spot where Shepherd shot James, and, although he was pursued for some distance by two

and ran.
Shepherd is noted in Clay and Jackson counties, having been an officer in Quantrell's command, and chief of the particular band in which were the James brothers and others who became noted outlaws. He is of iron nerve and great daring, stopping at nothing. He has been concerned in a number of adventures, the most noted being a bank robbery in Kentucky, in which his brother was an accomplice. The Shepher I boys returned to this part of the country immediately afterward and took up quarters in the house of Jarrette, the famous guerilla Captain who served with Quantrell. "Yankee" Bligh, the noted Louisville detective, followed them, and pursued them with a posse from Independence, and surrounded the house. The Shepherds fought desperately, and the brother was killed and George was captured and taken back to Kentucky. He afterward served a term in the penitentiary, and then returned to his old home.

Wanted to Burn Lee in Effigy.

Washington Star. Information has been received here of an attempt by the Readjusters of Falmouth, Va., to burn General Fitzhugh Lee in effigy Thursday night. General Lee was a prominent debtpayer candidate for the Legislature, and most earnest in his denunciation of repudiation. He was defeated. The Redjusters of Falmouth made an effigy of him and rode it around on a rail Thursday night. They were about to burn it, but they were persuaded not to by a party of men of their own thinking, who, hearing of the affair, rode over from Fredericksburg, five miles distant, and arrived just in time to prevent the image being given to the

NEW YORK IN 1880. The New York World, under this caption, publishes an editorial, which in part is reproduced here, giving its opinion of the political bearing of that State in the Presidential contest of 1880. It denounces Grant; it denounces Tilden; calls them machine politicians. We do not know who the World has in its mind's eye for the Presidency, but it is a pretty pat editorial, it strikes us, for Bayard, who seems to have the biggest boom of all, just now. Here is what the World says:

It is not necessary to wait for the final and official returns of the recent elections in this State in order to understand its true significance relatively to the Democratic party and to the Presidential contest of 1880. That significance is already perfectly well understood by those whom it is the fashion in these days to call "practical politicicans" in New York, and it will be wel for intelligent Democrats outside of New York to grasp it as early as possible and to lay it well to heart. The aggregate of the votes thrown in this city and in the State for Mr. Kelly is variously estimated at from 75,000 to 100,000. The probibilities are that the number of such votes thrown in the State at large will eventually prove to exceed the number of such votes thrown in the city. In the city the per_ sons who voted for Mr. Kelly did so for the most part because they desired to secure the election of one or another local candidate identified with Mr. Kelly, and the so-called Tammany vo.e in the city of New York, may therefore be fairly enough taken is affording an extreme outside measure of the voting strength of Tammany Hall when fighting its last battle for its life That vote fell twenty thousand short of the Democratic anti-Tammany vote in the city of New York. It may be held as proved, therefore, that Tammany Hall does not and cannot control the Democratic vote of New York city. It did not need to be proved that Tammany Hall does not and cannot control the Democratic vote of the State of New York. To what then are we to attribute the strength of the vote thrown for such an absurdly impossible Gubernatorial candidate as Mr. Kelly throughout the State? To this question, which consider in connection with the recent New York election, the answer is that the votes thrown for Mr. Kelly by Democrats in the State at large mainly represent the hostility of a powerful body of Democratic opinion organized and directed by Chief Justice Church, to the possible Presidential candidacy of Mr. Tilden. It was under the leadership of Chief Justice Church that Mr. Kelly's campaign, so far as the State of New York is concerned, was organized. During his Executive career in this State

Mr. Tilden permitted himself, with what motives it is not necessary now to consider, to insult and alier ate not Chief Justic Church only, but a great number of true and loyal Democrats at the State capital and throughout the commonwealth. He did this so wantonly and so effectually that nothing but the irreproachable person and political record of Governor Robinson and the odious character of the Tammany opposition to Governor Robinson, prevented a much more serious falling off of the Democratic strength in this State than actually occurred. In support of an objectionable third candidate and against an objectionable regular candidate of the Democracy the disaffection represented and led by Chief-Justice Church would have expressed itself by a bolt, not of 70,000 nor of 100,000 but of 150,000 Democratic votes in this city and State. That Governor Robinson himself understands this and reads aright the lesson of this campaign, appears from his sound and sagacious remark made to a reporter by the World on Thursday last, that New York is a safe Democratic State with any candidato acceptable to all sections of the party, This is perfectly true-so true that sensible Democrats out of New York from this moment forth will do well to bear two things steadily in mind. No man can be elected President of the United States by the Democratic party in 1880 who cannot command the united support of the Democrats of New York; and no man within the State of New York, unless perhaps Governor Seymour, who, for reasons satisfactory to himself, neither will nor can accept another Presidential candidacy, can command the united support of the Democrats of New York in 1880. Whatever else may or may not result from the election of Tuesday last it has at least made an end, so far as this great and metropolitan State is concerned, of machine politics and machine Presidential candidates for 1880. The Democrats have come out of the contest of 1879 relieved, so far as New York is concerned, of the danger that any New York Democratic machine will be strong enough in 1880 to impose a machine candidate upon the Democracy. The Tammany machine has been shattered in the city. The Tilden machine has been shattered in the city and the State. The Republicans of New York, on the contrary, have come out of the contest of 1879 handicapped with the Conkling machine, which may and probably will prove strong enough to impose General Grant upon the New York Republicans as their Presidential candidate in 1880. But for all that it seems to us to be clear that before the State of New York can be induced to give its electeral support in 1880 to any Republican party to put a machine can didate like General Grant in the field, a third party representing the conservative common sense of the majority of this people would inevitably come to the front.

Conkling in Washington.

Washington Star. Senator Roscoe Conkling is expected to arrive in the city on this afternoon's limited express train from New York. He has a case to argue before the Supreme Court this week. One of the Senator's warm admirers says that the Presidential nominee on the Republican ticket will be a candidate acceptable to Conkling, and that he will have more to say than any one man as to whom the nominee will be. This same enthusiastic admirer likewise adds, with a flavor of sarcasm, that the administration removed these federal officers in New York-Cornell, Sharp and Arthur-and gloats over the fact that Cornell has been elected Governor. Sharp to the New York legislature (of which he will probably be the speaker) and that Arthur stands a very good chance of succeeding Kernan in the Senate, should the next legislature be Republican.

Can Bayard Save the Democracy.

New York Herald. Whether the Democratic party could succeed with Mr. Bayard at its head, and on such a platform as he would write or adopt, is an open question. There is much evidence to show that the country is tired of the Republicans; with their utmost efforts their majorities are small everywhere, and there is no doubt that the party is weakened in the public esteem by the absolute control of its machinery by the extreme or stalwart politicians. At the same time the country has been wise enough all along to stick to the Republicans whom it does not entirely trust, rather than give itself to the Democrats, whom it was stil, less able to trust. That is, in brief, the political situation, and the Democrats have not during the present year made any change in it, except one which leaves them even worse off than before. To nominate Mr. Bayard would undoubtedly be a strong appeal to the confidence and good will of the people; but in view of the late extra session even this appeal may be

tion. NEW YORK, Nov. 10,-The Sun this morning publishes revised returns from many counties in the State, which show the following results: Potter, Democrat, Lieutenant-Governer, elected by 2,931 majority; Mackin, Democrat, Treasurer, by 1,202 majority; Horatio Seymour, Jr., Democrat, engineer and surveyor, by 9,759 majority; Carr, Republican, Secretary of State, by 673 majority; Ward, Republican, Attorney-General, 2,645 majority, and Wadsworth, Republican, Comptroller by 3,095 majority. The Sun adds that it has been impossible to get exact figures trom several counties, and from the closeness of some of the results it is plain that the official canvass alone car determine who are elected.

Washington Letter to N. Y. Star. From what I heard and saw while among Blaine's friends in New York—and he has scores of them there—I am sure they are about to push this canvass for the Republican Presidenti 1 nomination with greatest vigor. They say he is the only man who can carry the Convention and prevent Grant's name from being brought forward They believe Blaine to be as poon a now as he was in '76, and think that all it needs to make him the candidate hard and systematic work.

Mr. Tilden Appeals.

New York World. The counsel for Samuel J. Tilden in the suit brought against him by the government for arrears of income taxes have appealed the case to the United States Supreme Court from Judge Blatchford's decision in the matter of the bill of discovery, and yesterday the papers on appeal were presented to Judge Blatchlord for signature.

The Baltimore Postmastership Baltimore Sun. A number of well-known Republicans, taking it for granted that Postmaster Tyler will be removed from of-nice, are can vassing the city for endorsements for the position for the following named prominent members of the Republican party: Charles J. R. Thrope, Dr. J. H. Butler, John B. Askew, J. Emory Wetherby, Dr. J. Faris Moore, John R. Cox and Peter Thompson. For some of these gentle-men regularly drawn petitions are circulated, while friends of others are simply sounding the public pulse, with or without the consent of the gentleman whose cause they espouse. On the other hand all the assurances that have come from Washington are to the ef fect that there is as much satisfaction there as in Baltimore with the excellent business management of the post-office in this city by General Tyler.

The organization now ex-tends over four counties, and is said to number nearly 3,000 citizens.

Poor Potts.

Charlotte Observer. And now the painful intelligence comes from Philadelphia that Mrs. Potts, pretty Potts, the walking widder. Potts, the pedestrienne, all of which sobriquets she captured in her celebrated walk from Philadelphia to New Orleans and back, is now walking chen floor: in short, Potts is a Her "host of friends" in the South have been waiting with anxiety for the announcement that she had re-ceived that mint of money which she alleged was to be paid her on the acimplishment of the wonderful walkng feat, and instead of this comes the riliating statement that she has had to resort to the kitchen for a livelihood. This, too, the fate of a native of North Carolina, and one who promised to again become a citizen, for did she not say she intended to purchase a farm near High Point and settle there?

A Petulant Settler for Settle.

From the Press, Ring Variety Organ. The best service which Judge Settle can render to his reputation and to the country is either to attend to his duties as Judge, letting political movements severely alone, or to resign and enter politics on a plane with other citizens. This mixing up of his judicial character with that of a political schemer is degrading to his office, is demoralizing to him and is disgusting to the country.

A Fiery Visitor.

Cincinnati Enquirer. This morning at half past 4 o'clock a large and brilliant meteor was observed by our citizens to pass over the town. It was about the size of a water bucket, with a tail seven or eight feet in length, of a fiery-red color. A tremendous explosion was heard immediately after its passing, and a concussion of the earth was felt which was quite equal to a small earthquake. It is supposed that the meteor struck in six or eight miles of this place.

SENATOR OF MASSACHUSETTS. Messrs. Weeks & Potter: Gentlemen,—o say that I am grateful, is only a poor exression of my feelings, but it is the best ord I can use, for I feel it in every sense of he word. I have been a greatsufferer with kin diseases for the last twelve (12) years, by head and face being covered with sores, could not rest with the burning heat and ching of the parts affected, and was connect to my house for weeks at a time. My issense has been called Eczema, of a most gravated type, by many by sicians, but I Messrs, WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen,disease has been called Eczema, of a most aggravated type, by many physicians, but I doubt if ever fully understood by any of them. It was more like a combination of several skin humors. I have spent much money seeking a cure, and in 1857 I went to Europe, and consulted some of the best physicians in London. I received te mporary relief only, for in the spring it would be the second of the s rary relief only, for in the spring it would break out again as bad as ever. When I came back to Boston, I was told by many friends that Dr. — (whose reputation for the cure of those diseases was of the highest order) could cure me. I waited on the doctor; he prescribed for me. I followed his advice for six months, and I can safely say, without any improvement. I tried other physicians and among them Dr. —, of East Boston, and Dr. —, of city proper, but all to no purpose. They did me no good; their remedies were so ineffectual that at no time did I feel that a cure would result from them. I have swallowed five hundred arsenic lls, 5.20 grain, and taken bottle after bot-e of internal remedies, besides all the ex-rnal applications I have used, but the efect was the same. I became satisfied that could not be cured, but might be kept I could not be cured, but might be kept from getting worse.

Now, about three months ago, Mr: Meehan, a gentleman well known to Boston people, called my attention to your CUTICURA, and promised wonderful results if I would only make a trial. He told me of his own experience with it, and so persevered on me that I went with him to a drug store and bought two large boxes of CUTICURA, and some CUTICURA SOAP, and commenced to use it according to the directions. There was so much humor lodged within the skin, to use it according to the directions. There was so much humor lodged within the skin, that as soon as I commenced the use of Cu-Ticura it came to the surface and festered, until vast quantities had come out and greatly intensified my sufferings for about two weeks. But I did not mind this, as I felt that I was going to get rid of the humor when I saw it coming to the surface in such large quantities. After the first two or three weeks' use of this remedy, I was greatly encouraged by a gradual lessening of the inflammation of a number of painful sores. I carefully, faithfully, and cheerfully followed the directions to the letter, feeling each week nearer a cure, until at the present moment, after three months' use of Cu-Ticura, and twelve years of as constant suffering as was ever endured, I can say that I am cured, and pronounce my case the most remarkable on record I have been so fering as was ever endured, I can say that I am cured, and pronounce my case the most remarkable on record. I have been so elated with my success that I have stopped men on the street who were afflicted, and told them to get the Cutticura and it would cure them. This is why I am so grateful to you, for I believe it to be the best and greatest discovery of the age, and that it will cure all who are suffering with these diseases. I may add that I took no internal medicine but the Cuticura Resolvent.

Long Freight Train.

The through freight train that arrived on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad last evening was probably the longest train that was ever brought into our city. It had forty-two freight cars and a passenger coach-all drawn by the magnificent engine No. 6, managed by a Raleigh boy, Frank Tighe, who is one of the most expert and reliable engine drivers that any road can boast of. Captain Holleman was the conductor of the train, and, with his usual dispatch of business, made good time and arrived in town on schedule.

on good terms. Apply, Job Osborn. The World's Child Magazine. John Greenleaf Whittier, the most child-hearted as he is among the foremost of American Authors, writes of St. Nicholas: "It is little to say of this magazine that it is the best child's periodical in the world." Prof. Proctor, the astronomer, wrote from London: "What a wonderful magazine it is for young folks, and ours are quite as much delighted with it as American children can be!" That it is calculated to delight the little folk everywhere is indicated by the fact that it is to be issued in French by Delagrave of Paris and that even the far-away little Moslems are now to have a volume made up of translations from St. NICHOLAS into Arabic by the Rev. H. H. Jes-

Beginning with the November number (ready Oct. 25th) the magazine is to be printed on heavier paper with wider margins, and it is to be so much enlarged that the new volume will con-tain nearly two hundred more pages than any former volume, while the price will remain the same. The pubishers announce many brilliant novelties, including a new serial by Miss Louisa M. Alcott, entitled "Jack and Jill;" "The Treasure-Box of English Literature," in which will be given gems from standard English and American authors; an Acting-Play for Sunday Schools, by Rev. Edward Eggleston, which will be printed in time for the holidays, with full directions for its representation in school exhibitions; and a beautiful Fairy Operetta for children, entitled "The Steeping Beauty in the Wood." The November number has two beautiful frontispieces and a red-line titlepage, and contains over sixty illustra-tions. In it, begins a new serial story for boys, "AMONG THE LAKES," by the author of "Dab Kinzer."

Another splendid serial for boys has been secured for this volume,—"The Fairport Nine," a story of a base-ball club, by NOAH BROOKS. In short, St. NICHOLAS, which has no rival on either continent, is to be better than ever. A superb Christmas number is in preparation, to appear early in December. What Physicians at Home and Abroad Think of the Seven Springs Iron and Alum Mass.

In the treatment of Dyspepsia, Chloosis, Anæmia, Nervous and Muscular Debility, Nervous and Sick Headache, Dysmenorrhœa, Menorrhagia, Amenorrhœa, diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder and such like organic or functional disturbances, I know of no remedy upon which I can rely with more certainty of satisfactory results than the "Seven Springs Mass."

W. F. BARR, M. D., Abingdon, Va.

I have found no one single remedy to riave found no one single remedy to yield such satisfactory results as the "Seven Springs Mass." In the treatment of Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhea, Anamia, Chlorosis, and for Chronic Eczema, I find it invaluable, associated with appropriate topical treatment. GEO. T. HARRISON, M. D., New York City.

From my experience with the "Iron and Alum Mass," I believe it will prove the best medicine we have in use, for chronic diseases

A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOV-ERNOR.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.
By authority of law, I, Thomas J. Jarvis,
Governor of North Carolina, do set apart, Thursday, November 27th, 1879, as a day of prayer and thanksgiving to Almighty God, for the manifold mercies and blessings He has vouchsafed to us during the year now passing away. has vouchsafed to us during the year now passing away.

And in order for its proper observance I request the people on that day to close up their places of business and abandoning all secular pursuits to attend their respective places of Divine Worship, to return thanks to the Great Ruler of individuals and nations for the peace and tranquility which we have enjoyed; for the exemption from pestilence and disease which He has given us; for the kind and friendly relations that has existed among all classes of our citizens; for the general and growing prosperity that has pervaded the whole State and for all His varied blessings bestowed upon us; and to invoke a continuance of His watchful care and protection over us during the coming year.

And while it will be becoming on that day to remember the widow and the orphan, and the poor and needy everywhere among us; and to minister to their wants, I especally commend to the prayers and gifts of the people the Orphans in the Asylum at Oxford, who are now dependent for a support solely upon the charity of the people, the State appropriation for that purpose being entirely exhausted.

Done at our city of Raleigh, this, the lith day of November, in the year of Our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventy nine, and in the one hundred and fourth year of our American Independence.

ence. By the Governor,
THOMAS J. JARVIS.
LEE S. OVERMAN, Private Secretary.
